

Peter Ellis, CMM, CD, is a former naval officer who joined Clear Seas after retiring from the Canadian Armed Forces at the rank of Rear-Admiral. During his thirty-one year military career Peter held a variety of operational and institutional leadership roles both at sea and ashore, having served in Halifax, Esquimalt and Ottawa.

He has served in over a dozen Canadian ships and submarines, and sailed in several allied warships. He commanded the frigate HMCS Halifax, the Canadian Forces Naval Operations School, Canada's Pacific Fleet, and an eleven-nation amphibious force during Exercise RIMPAC 2012. He served his last four years in uniform as Deputy-Commander of the Canadian Joint Operations Command.